What does Social Protection mean?

Social protection is broader than the traditional social security (health, pensions, unemployment and professional risk insurance)

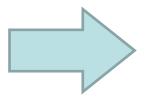

It is based on a Comprehensive Risk Social Management approach. It includes Risk prevention, mitigation and coping elements (access to physical and financial assets, human capital creation).

It incorporates the notion of citizenship and social inclusion.
It is about guaranteeing improved living conditions. Guaranteed economic and social rights.

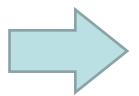

What are the guiding principles of Social Protection?

1. Based on a capacities generation approach

- Development of Human Capital
- b. Process of on-going support to interventions
- c. Pertinence vis-à-vis the needs
- d. Articulation of supply and demand
- 2. It is Universal It includes the entire population

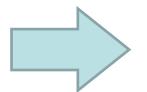

- a. Access to social services: Some contribute while others are subsidized
- b. Public Resources: Focusing first on the most needy
- c. Universalization of basic services

What are the guiding principles of Social Protection? (II)

3. It seeks a comprehensive service offering

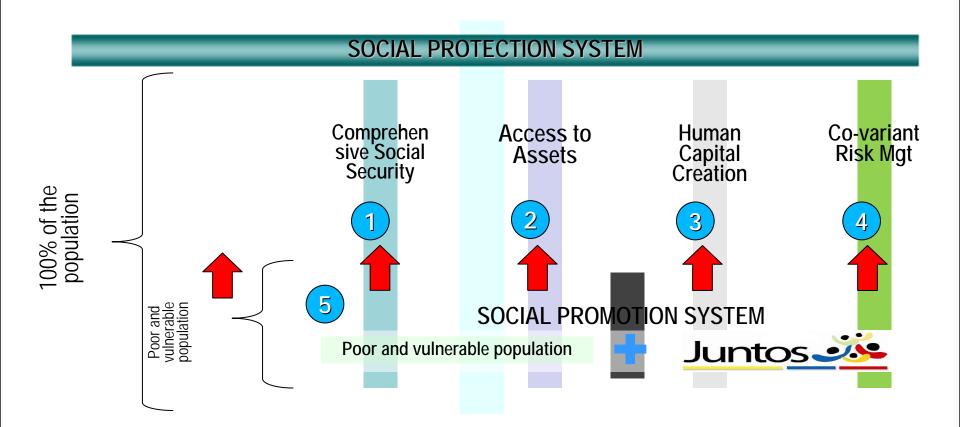

- a. It guarantees effects on every member of a family
- b. It makes it possible to address the deficiencies of the most vulnerable population in an integrated manner
- c. It supports the capacities approach

- 4. It uses mechanisms and programs that address the structural problems in a multi-dimensional manner (Juntos Network, Income Generation Policy).
- 5. It places special emphasis on the factors of intergenerational poverty transmission (Education Human Capital Creation, Early Childhood).

The Colombian Social Protection System

The Colombian Social Protection System

Social Promotion System

It is targeted at the poorest and most vulnerable population, requiring additional government support to overcome their situation.

It exceeds the assistentialist view because it seeks to promote an expansion of this population's possibilities of attaining social inclusion and income generation goals.

How is Social Promotion defined in Colombia

Law 1151 of 2007

- (...) are interventions on a population group identified as poor (...) seeking to create or strengthen the capability of a family to generate an income flow that will allow them to get out of poverty.
- (...) Its objective is to expand the opportunities of the poor and the vulnerable, not only to temporarily solve their basic needs problems, but to promote the expansion of their opportunities; that is, to attain goals in terms of social inclusion and generation of their own income.

How is Social Promotion defined in Colombia (II)

Characteristics

- 1 It is a Government action or intervention seeking to guarantee rights
- It is targeted at a clearly defined group in a situation of socially unacceptable deprivation and vulnerability conditions (it is focused)
- It is temporary for the individual or the family. It must have explicit exit conditions.
- It makes provisions, in its design, for multiple dimensions of deprivation.
- It is global in the design of the intervention and in the conception of the family as the subject of the intervention.
- It must be relative in the satisfactors: equality of ends rather than means
 - It promotes the generation of means for self sufficiency

Juntos Network, Colombia's Social Promotion Strategy

Strategy

What is JUNTOS?

JUNTOS is an integrated and coordinated intervention strategy of the different organizations and Government levels.

Objective

To enables 1,5 million extremely poor and displaced families to overcome their situation and thus improve their quality of life.

CHARACTERISTICS

Basic Family Accomplishment Approach
On-going support for each family

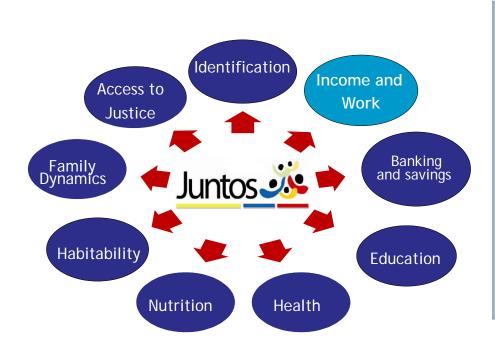

Articulation among the actors Information systems

Juntos Network, Colombia's Social Promotion Strategy

Dimensions

JUNTOS addresses poverty from a multi-dimensional perspective; with this aim it has defined 45 Basic Family Accomplishments within the framework of nine dimensions of Human Development.

Prioritize and include the beneficiary families in the public offer of social services (Preferential Access).

Adjust the social program offering to the demand of the families.

Incentivate the household's human capital creation and accumulation attainments.

Support the families as they build a new life perspective that will enable them to be active agents of their own development.

Break the poverty cycle and socioeconomically stabilize the extremely poor
